IN TURBULENT BELFAST

WHERE RELIGIOUS HATRED STILL RUNS HIGH

UNEMPLOYMENT AND DISTRESS

(BY G. R. ROSS)

Belfast has suddenly come very much into the lime light owing to the riots which broke out early this week. The cause of the disturbance appears to be the old story of unemployment. The newspapers and other authorities have it that all is now quiet in Belfast, but though the rioters have for the moment been cowed, Irishmen are not likely to give-in without another kick! In many ways it is to be wondered that these disturbances did not break out sooner, for not only Belfast but all Ulster is rife with unemployment. One has only to walk down a main street in the city and see the queues waiting for the "dole" and having drawn their weekly allowance they return to their haunts either to play marbles in the street—a strange pursuit for mature and middle aged men—or to support the local factory or picture house walls until next week's pay day!

In Harland and Wolff, Belfast has one of the largest ship-building yards in the world, but like all other centres, it has been severely hit by economy schemes. Just now, they are finishing off the "Highland Patriot" and few orders are coming forward! Workman and Clark's, the other big firm, have not had a ship in their yard since the "Bermuda" was burnt! That vessel they are now converting into a cargo boat. The linen industry, which has grown steadily in Ireland since the 17th century, when it was introduced by the ill-fated Sir Thomas Wentworth has been hit a very low ebb, having lost the 50 per cent. anti-dumping duties on foreign products. It now has only a 20 per cent. tariff, which helps the Government revenue, but is not enough to stop the foreign goods coming in.

Curfew.

It is announced that a curfew has been established, which means that any person out-of-doors between the hours of 11.00 p.m. and 5.00 a.m. is liable to arrest. The writer can well remember his first visit to Belfast in the summer of 1923, when curfew was still in force after the guerrilla warfare of 1922. This curfew was lifted early in 1924.

Ulster.

To a native of Northern Ireland, Ulster is familiarly known as the "Six Counties," these comprising Londonderry, Antrim, Down, Armagh, Tyrone and Fermanagh; the chief seaports being Belfast and Londonderry.

Some three hundred years ago, Belfast was a small village on mud-flats, lying in a wide valley at the mouth of the River Lagan. To-day it is a rapidly growing city, of nearly half a million inhabitants.

To a stranger the people of Northern Ireland appear somewhat distant, but once settled, and living among them, they are found to be very sociable indeed. They are generous, sympathetic and obliging. An Ulsterman—as a friend, is a good, and sincere one indeed; but he also makes a bitter enemy! If he likes you, he may take great pains to conceal the fact, but you will find him constantly "cropping up" doing you a little good turn here and another there.

One would travel a long way to find finer scenery than that of Northern Ireland, with its mountains, rivers and streams. As far as agriculture is concerned, nearly one-third of the land is cultivated, the principal crops being, corn, potatoes, hay and flax. The peasant people are most hospitable, one and all, with the "Come-in-and-take-me-as-you-find-me" air.

The main sport now-a-days is Greyhound Racing. There are two tracks in Belfast, each holding three meetings a week. During the last five years the R.A.C. have held a "Tourist Trophy Motor Race," near Belfast. This, of course, has drawn thousands of people, not only from Ulster, but from all over the British Isles. Many famous drivers take part in this "six-hours" race, including Sir H. Birkin, Malcolm Campbell, Kaye Don, and George Eyston, together with many well-known continental sportsmen.

North and South.

There is no disputing that the chief cause of all the bitterness between Northern and Southern Ireland is the difference in religion, Protestants in the north and Roman Catholics in the south. Even in business, they go out of their way to put obstacles in the other's path; and it is true to say that, only under very rare circumstances will a Protestant and a Catholic work in the same building. In Belfast there are two main roads, less than a quarter of a mile apart—Falls Road and Shankill Road—living in the one, are Catholics and Catholics only, while in the other, we find Protestants. The feeling in this area is so bitter, that a Catholic would be unwise to walk up the Protestant's road at night and vice-versa.

When it is remembered that the recent riots broke out in the Shankill and Falls Roads it is fairly evident to anyone who knows Belfast that the authorities must now be taking grave precautions to prevent this outbreak developing into a miniature religious war.

Orange Lodges.

Every loyal Ulsterman is a member of an Orange Lodge. These lodges control the religious and political views of the members. The people of Ulster are chiefly Conservative; but on the other hand if a certain lodge were Liberal, then every man in it would have to vote Liberal!

Every year on the 12th July, the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, all the lodges (complete with drums, flutes and banners) meet and march off to some field where they spend the day. The banners are inscribed with "To the glorious, pious and immortal memory of King William of Orange" and bear a portrait of that monarch. These banners are of huge size, and are carried by about half-a-dozen men. Other favourite designs are a white horse—the one ridden by the victor, of the Boyne—Biblical subjects, such as David and Goliath, Daniel and the Lions, etc., and the Battle of the Somme, where so many gallant Ulstermen gave their lives. The master of each lodge stands up and gives his opinion on politics, on England and English rule, on the Irish Free State, and, last but not least on Ulster. As far as their attitude towards the last three are concerned, they may be summarised as follows:—(1) "Up with the Red White and Blue"; (2) "To hell with the Popol!" and (3) "Down with the rebels!" and (3) "Ulster for ever," and "Remember the Somme!"

AUTUMN STYLES ARE HERE

ROUND THE SHOPS

[By "EVE"]

The Dolly Vardon Hat Shop is undoubtedly one of the most up-to-the-minute salons in Hong Kong, as every week sees a new shipment of the very latest hats and gowns which are sent over the Pacific by celebrated American fashion houses as soon as they are designed. In fact I think I am justified in saying that as far as American modes are concerned, the Dolly Vardon Hat Shop is among the first to feature the new fashions as they come along. This week, for example, there are some frocks made from that charming new material—wool crepe. A dark-blue model in this material shows how delightful it can be in a plain tailored style, the only trimming being some rather large black buttons down the front of the skirt. A detachable cape completes this elegant outfit. There are also some very chic afternoon models in a thick crepe silk, all showing something new in cut and trimmings. Among the new hat models, black still predominates, though many models are shown in the new dull red and in all shades of brown. The American sailor shapes look rather chic with the small eye-veil; in fact most of the hats with veils have a little brim. Flows appears everywhere, and, made in white leather, are the thing. Also among the new arrivals are some very smart blouses, in silk and satin and the scarfs with their large coloured spot are fashion's last word.

Gordon's.—Combined materials in subdued monotone effects are among the outstanding features of Autumn footwear. Black and brown are of equal importance in Gordon's new collection so far as colours are concerned. These surface treatments are handled with a great deal of restraint so that all the elements of good taste and simplicity are preserved to their fullest. One of the ideas repeatedly employed in the new shoes is light effect, obtained by using a glossy leather with a dull leather, or playing a mottled leather against a plain. Here lizard plays an important part, appearing in narrow stripings on shoes and dull kid. Underlays of contrasting leather and appliques of soft leathers with piping of lizard or dull gun-metal kid are included in some of the novelty effects. Pinked edges and perforations also lend variety to footwear fashions.

Lane, Crawford's.—If you are looking for something really smart for evening wear, you must take a look in at Lane, Crawford's this week as they have just unpacked a most wonderful selection of French evening gowns. Simplicity is shown in all these new models. Angle-skin with an embossed design is used for one model, which is cut on simple lines, the only trimming being a hip sash of green velvet. A red model shows how delightful an Empire style is, the only decoration being a touch of black on the bodice, finishing off with a diamond trimming. A beige lace model looks very charming with its accompanying fur-trimmed coat while a peach coloured satin features the low back and is trimmed with deep rose pink in the same material.

Whiteaway's.—Although we are still wearing summer clothes, Whiteaway's are taking no chances with our weather, and are showing this week some of the new and certainly most attractive winter coats. Styles are in most cases similar to those we favoured last year, but there are certain distinctive touches which distinguish last year's from this. Chief among these are the really extraordinarily smart coats, cut on strict military lines; these promises to be firm favourites in the coming season as they fall in simple and becoming lines and are flattering to most figures. By the bye, Whiteaway's have received their first shipment this year of children's toys, and though Xmas is still far away, it would be a good idea to look them over.

A MODERN GIRL'S CAREER

LET HER INVENT HER OWN

So complex is the immediate problem of launching a young woman into life that I am sometimes selfishly glad to reflect that my own daughter, now aged two, is still a considerable distance from anything that could be called a career!

But even in this difficult business of choosing a modern girl's occupation the problems become simpler if a few general ideas are kept in mind.

The easiest task is that of the parent whose daughter has some definite gift, backed up by a strong inclination of her own, writes Vera Britain in the Daily Mail. Talent and will-power can carry a girl over the worst of obstacles, and many women who are famous now owe their position to their splendid power of "staying the course." So I think that when a keen desire is shown by a daughter for a particular career, parents should make all possible sacrifices to allow her to follow it, even though immediate prospects may not seem favourable.

In these cases the school record usually provides sufficient evidence of ability, but parents who are still undecided can now consult vocational specialists who use psychological methods to test the suitability of children for their chosen occupations.

Most parents, however, have to plan the future of a daughter who though she may be charming and intelligent, has no outstanding taste or talent. It is here that the responsibilities of career-choosing weigh most heavily on her worried parents.

New Kinds of Work.

On the whole, it is best to avoid the large and more obvious fields, such as teaching and secretarial work, in which there is now so much over-crowding and consequent unemployment. But even in these there are reasonable prospects if a girl chooses some branch of a crowded profession, such as pure science, teaching, which is still in process of development. Or she will be more likely to get on if she takes the trouble to acquire some qualification, such as an unusual language, which sets her above the ordinary level of shorthand-typists.

In nursery nursing, again, there is much unemployment, but the girl who gives special attention to elementary psychology and studies modern methods of child-management at such pioneer institutions as the London babies' clubs is less likely to be without a post.

The girl who desires permanent independence whether she is married or single should avoid posts in the Civil Service or under the majority of local authorities, which have to be given up on marriage. To my mind, the best prospects of professional success exist to-day in the newer fields, such as industrial research, welfare work, and the various branches of applied science. Just at the moment it is probably best to avoid the more conventional and "set" occupations. The young woman most likely to prosper is she who tries to foresee a need in the community, and then sets out to fulfil it.

In her book on "Careers for Women," Leonora Eyles suggests that the most hopeful prospects for women workers lie in small productive businesses of every kind, from small-holding and shop-keeping to professional "mothering."

Be Adventurous!

Less capital is often essential to such businesses than would be needed for acquiring qualifications of doubtful marketable value. And though they may never produce great wealth they do offer a chance of varied life and personal development as distinct from the more existence of routine occupations.

An American girl who turned herself into an expert photographer of industrial machinery and buildings has now, at the age 25, a large and flourishing business, and is employed by numerous United States firms in their advertisement campaigns. Among my acquaintances, again, is a young married woman who is making a success of a canine "parlour," to which pet dogs are taken to be shampooed and manicured.

FASHION HINTS

WHITE HATS TOP BLACK CUSTOMES

Paris.—Lily Pons, French soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is among smart women who have adopted the vogue for white hats with dark costumes. With a black frock she wears a turban of white jersey ribbon trimmed at the left back with a point of black stitched jersey scarf.

Black Frocks Take on New Verve.

Paris. Waxed lace is the newest trim for black frocks. One smart Parisian wears a gown of black marocain trimmed with white waxed lace revers and cavalier cuffs which extended to the elbow. With it she wears a broad brimmed black velvet hat trimmed with a band of the same lace.

Debutantes Take Up Professional Posing.

New York.—No longer do professional models have a monopoly in posing.

The girls you see smiling in the advertisements or promenading in fashion shows may be debutantes, show girls, designers, telephone operators, actresses or night clerks in hotels.

There's blue-eyed Elizabeth Steele, for instance. She's the debutante daughter of Mrs. J. Nevett Steele of Park Avenue. When she isn't modelling, she's playing tennis or riding in Central Park.

Or consider Muriel Richards, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Richards of "Great Neck," Long Island.

She just returned from a year's schooling in Paris and hopes to make her debut this season. She has gone into the modeling profession because she can't stand the idea of "loafing around all the time."

And there's beautiful Virginia Parsons, daughter of Mrs. E. W. Parsons, a debutante of several seasons ago, a designer of clothes and since last October owner of her own little hat shop.

These three are modeling "for the fun of it," and there's a group of actresses modeling "for the money in it." Strangely enough, none of these various groups fears competition from the others.

"Why should we?" query the show girls, while the debutantes put forth the same question.

Evening Gowns Are Not What They Were.

Paris.—A white satin evening gown that from just a few distances away looks like modesty itself with a fairly high neckline, little puff sleeves and a very full skirt, upon closer inspection proves one of the most daring of the season. From the high neckline the armholes are cut clear to the waist, and in front and back slits are made to reveal rather generous sections of nudity.

One house insists upon designing gowns with the effect of being glued onto the flesh, but which, in reality, are held by yokes of flesh coloured chifon. These done in black, with the flesh or ivory tinted chifon, are inspiring, to say the least. Evening gowns with long black sleeves of big mesh net, which continue onto the shoulders and cover the entire back to the belt line, are infinitely more alluring than too great an exposition of the dorsal surface in a pattern.

Old Blue in Chiffon Outfit.

Washington.—Miss Mildred Hall, secretary to Mrs. Hoover, recently wore a white chiffon dress figured in old blue. The long skirt, with a short Eton coat of the same material, flared from the knees. Her gloves and shoes of old blue matched a picture hat trimmed beneath the brim with corn flowers.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE'S NOTEBOOK

If you are making an egg custard-boiled—to serve with stewed fruit or another sweet, reserve a little of this in a separate basin.

When the custard is cold, add one teaspoonful of made mustard, one tablespoonful of vinegar, pepper and salt. As the custard is already sweetened, no further sugar will be needed.

Mix the vinegar, salt, and pepper well into the cold custard, then use as any ordinary salad dressing.

When Cream is Running Short.

Unexpected visitors often provide problems of how to make a little go a long way. Here is a way with cream.

Pour whatever quantity of cream you have into a basin, then add just as much milk to it. Whisk well until the cream and milk thickens, then pour into a jug.

This should, if possible, be done at the last minute, but if it must be done beforehand, stir the cream well up before serving. This is a very useful hint during strawberry time.

Young Turnips—With Cheese Sauce.

Young turnips, served with cheese sauce, are delicious to eat, and provide something of a novelty.

Wash and trim some young turnips. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Cut them lengthwise and serve on toast which has been plunged quickly into the liquid the turnips were cooked in.

Pour a little melted butter on the toast. Place the turnips in position, then coat evenly with a cheese sauce.

Sprinkle a little red pepper on the top as a garnish.

BETTER MILK FOR BABIES

LACTOGEN

helps Baby to develop a sound digestive system

By giving Baby every food element she needs in exactly the right forms and proportions, Lactogen—the dried milk food—encourages Baby's digestive system to develop normally.

Lactogen's fine flaky curds and extra-small fat globules bring nutriment gently to baby's little digestive organs. Food for energy, food to make firm flesh—minerals to build sturdy, dense bone—vitamins to ensure health and growth—all this vital food goes quickly to work when Baby is put on Lactogen.

Lactogen is pure, fresh, full-cream milk, with extra cream and natural milk sugar added, made germ-free and then dried by Lactogen processes which preserve unchanged the valuable mineral and vitamin content of the fresh milk. Lactogen is thus made, in all important respects, exactly like breast milk.

"Lactogen is the better milk for Baby," Doctors, Nurses and Mothers have found that out. So now the best advice is "Put Baby on Lactogen."

INTERPORT POLO TO-DAY NOTES ON THE PLAYERS FINE GAME PROMISED

Plans have been completed for the reception and entertaining of the Shanghai Interport Polo Team which is arriving by the Empress of Japan to-day. The names of the members of this team have been received and are as follows:—Judge C. S. Franklin, who will act as captain, Dr. V. Parks Woods, N. F. Allman, and D. Burdick. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. Woods, and Mrs. Burdick.

As reported earlier, the match will be played on the Hong Kong Polo Club grounds at Causeway Bay at 3 p.m. to-day. Following the match a dinner has been arranged by the members of the local club in honour of the visitors and will be held in the private dining room of the Gloucester Building under the personal and able supervision of Mr. Newman.

The menu will be as follows:

- MENU
1st Chukker: Hors d'Oeuvre.
2nd Chukker: Tomato Bouillon.
3rd Chukker: Fillet of Sole Duglère.
4th Chukker: Chateaubriand Bearnaise.
5th Chukker: Bombe Marco Polo.
6th Chukker: Fruit Basket.
Chukker Out: Demi Tasse.

A special dinner for the visiting wives is also planned.

The players from Shanghai have announced that the pressure of business necessitates their departure to-morrow morning. The fact that men as busy as they have journeyed to Hong Kong, bringing their ponies with them, to compete for the Keswick Cup, indicates the importance they attach thereto.

This cup was given by the late Mr. Keswick, the father of Mr. J. Keswick of Jardines, and was first competed for in 1907 at Shanghai. This will be the 13th match to contest for its possession. Although these matches have been played at irregular intervals, the scene has alternated regularly between Shanghai and Hong Kong. The Shanghai club has retained the Cup through the last nine competitions, although in 1922 play was continued through eight chukkers before the deciding score of six to five was made.

The Shanghai Team.
Two of the members of the Shanghai team have long records as polo players. Judge Franklin, who will act as captain, played for several years in Honolulu prior to his arrival on the China Coast in 1925. Since then he has played regularly in the Shanghai International matches and has captained American teams against Tientsin and Peiping, as well as against other Shanghai teams.

Mr. Allman's record dates from 1927 since which time he has played in teams competing for the Hoyt Cup, captaining the American team in 1931. He has also played in the international matches.

Less is definitely known in Hong Kong concerning Dr. Woods and Mr. Burdick. The latter was a member of the Shanghai team which defeated Tientsin in 1930 by a score of six to two goals.

The recent history of this team is such as to mark them as formidable opponents. They come well mounted and with considerable experience as a playing unit.

Hong Kong Players.
The Hong Kong team, which is composed of Captain P. L. Villar as captain, F. A. Pollock, Major J. R. Barry, and J. Keswick, has had less practice as a team, although the individuals have played for many years. Captain Villar, of the South Wales Borderers, is well-known to Hong Kong polo enthusiasts. His experience has been gained in part with the service at foreign posts. Major Barry, of the Royal Artillery, has followed polo both at home and abroad.

Mr. Pollock, of Jardines, is better known to Shanghai, this year, with the exception of a short stay several years ago, being his first in Hong Kong. Mr. Keswick, who is the son of the founder of the cup, is also a recent arrival from Shanghai.

These four have been playing as a team recently and give indications of an ability to offer strong opposition even to such a group as the visitors from the North. The match will be followed with great interest from the start at 3 p.m. The band of the 1st Battalion 24th Regiment will play during the afternoon, and Mrs. Southern has graciously consented to present the trophy at the conclusion.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

BY
UNCLE JACK

A PROFITABLE MISTAKE

DEAR KIDDIES,

Are you constantly making mistakes? I know one little niece who is for ever getting into trouble because of her blunders, but I am rather afraid her mistakes are through carelessness.

Mistakes happen so often that people are apt to treat them purely as a matter of course, and dismiss them without comment, whether they are errors made through carelessness or ignorance.

Sometimes these mistakes cause a lot of trouble, and often much misery, but the other day I heard of a mistake which resulted in the making of thousands of pounds' profit.

Most of you know that we get turpentine from the pine tree, and that these trees are slashed to allow the fluid to flow. One day an old negro was slashing away when an expert noticed that he was striking left-handed.

All the axes had been ground for right-handed cutters, and their edges were sharpened on one side more than the other suit this special purpose.

The cut the old negro aimed was, therefore, different in shape from that intended. The expert kept careful watch, and noticed that from this cut much more turpentine oozed.

Quickly he went to work and had all the axes altered so that they made this same type of cut, and the result was that at the end of one year his company made nearly £200,000 more profit.

From this you must not imagine that you may be careless and keep on making mistakes—profitable ones like the one I have told you about are few and far between.

CHEERIO.

UNCLE JACK.

AT THE ZOO

A SNAKE WITH HORNS!

A VERY queer-looking snake has come to the London Zoo from the Gold Coast. He is a horn-nosed viper, and is so called because he carries a pair of horns on the tip of his snout. These strange decorations are not made of real horn, however, but are caused by the skin forming extra scales at those two points; and as they rise up to just over an inch in height they give the viper a very alarming appearance.

This viper with horns on his nose is as evil as he looks; for his bite is extremely poisonous. He is a big reptile, too, and measures over a yard in length, and has a thick wedge-shaped body, and as he carries his club-shaped, horned head erect in a high position above the ground, as though always ready to strike, he fills one with terror when he appears.

The only good thing about this horrid snake is the fact that his colouring is very beautiful.

He is of a warm, reddish-brown tint, with squarish markings in a darker tone all down his back; and his under parts are prettily striped in pale buff, silver-grey, and salmon-pink.

AN animal's rights consist in it having the liberty to live a natural life, restricted only so far as to meet the imperative requirements of man.

A NOVEL SEAT

A CURIOUS upholstery material is being manufactured for the London General omnibuses.

The pure milk from the rubber trees is whipped until it is all froth, and the froth is poured into moulds. The rubber sets to the shape of the cushions, and is like a huge blanc-mange, which is said to have an abnormal liveliness, giving wonderful elasticity and a very comfortable seat.

IF I WERE A BOY LIKE YOU

I'D plan such lovely things to see, And lovely things to do; I'd let my fancies wander free. If I were a boy like you.

I'D think of places far and wide, Perhaps of India's shore. And many Eastern lands beside. Like my father did of yore.

JUST picture desert sands at night, With bright stars overhead, A velvet sky and breezes slight To play around your bed.

SO many, many dreams I'd dream Of how, and why, and who; A lovely future would I scheme If I were a boy like you.

THE SONG OF THE AIRMAN

I AM the man who conquers space And flies across the sky; The wind comes beating on my face; I span the clouds so high.

At many hundred miles an hour I whiz from shore to shore Just listen to the engine's power, 'Till shake you to the core.

WHAT is Australia to me! It isn't far at all; I fly there in a day or three Without a single fall.

No place too distant is there now For me—no height too tall. Come up with me, I'll show you how. Just any time you call.

Why Wonder?

Johnnie was gazing at his one-day-old brother, who lay squawling and yelling in his cot.

"Did he come from heaven?" enquired Johnnie.

"Well," said Johnnie gravely, "no wonder they kicked him out."

ALLEGED THREAT IN ICE HOUSE STREET

MR. O'SHEA RELATES HOW LA SALA THREATENED HIM WITH KNIFE

MAJOR CASSEL'S CASE AGAINST DEFENDANT DISMISSED: MAGISTRATE'S OPINION

The case in which B. de la Sala was charged with threatening Major Cassel with a revolver on September 28 at the offices of the Shamen Printing Press, was concluded at the Magistracy yesterday when Mr. Wynne Jones discharged the defendant.

The case against la Sala for threatening Mr. Raymond O'Shea with a knife in Ice House Street was then proceeded with and at the close of the afternoon's hearing, the prosecution had completed their case. The hearing was then adjourned until 11.30 to-morrow morning when it is hoped that Mr. Lammett of the Shamen Printing Press, Canton, will be able to give evidence for the defence.

Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro appeared for the defence.

"MY FIVE YEARS IN HELL"

In discharging the defendant in connection with the alleged threat to Major Cassel, Mr. Wynne Jones said: "In this case the actual threat alleged by Major Cassel was in the words that he (the defendant) would 'do in' Major Cassel or anybody else who interfered with him at some indefinite time. Major Cassel himself has said that he would not interfere with defendant. We then have the statement that Major Cassel saw a black automatic produced and put back in the pocket of the defendant. The suggestion put forward by the defence is that that might have been a black leather key case. It is just possible that Major Cassel might have been mistaken in what he saw and I therefore have to give the defendant the benefit of the doubt. That being the case there is no criminal intimidation as alleged in the original charge nor is there evidence of assault according to the strict reading of the law and therefore the defendant is discharged on this particular count.

Mr. D'Almada: In view of that decision, Mr. O'Shea might wish to have time to consider the wisdom or otherwise of continuing with his case.

Mr. Wynne Jones: I may say that in the case of Mr. O'Shea, the allegation is definitely that a knife was produced.

Mr. O'Shea: In view of the circumstances I will proceed with the case.

Mr. O'Shea in Witness-box.

Mr. O'Shea then gave evidence which was briefly as follows:—

On September 28 he was in the St. Francis Hotel with a friend at 6.30 p.m. having a drink. About a quarter of an hour later la Sala together with a certain Captain Hall entered the Hotel and joined their table and la Sala ordered a drink for himself and one for his friend. Mr. O'Shea said that he did not invite la Sala to join his table. The defendant invited a French lady to join the table and spoke about his experiences in the foreign legion to the French lady.

"In view of previous circumstances," said witness, "I was considerably agitated by the entry of the accused and I imagine that he had followed me to the Hotel."

At 7 p.m. the defendant left the table to go to another room and witness said he took the opportunity to leave the hotel. At the corner of Ice House Street, adjoining the Netherlands Bank, witness heard footsteps behind him. Someone gripped him by the arm and on turning round he saw the defendant who then said: "I am going to settle with you and Major Cassel and I am going to do you in first." Defendant then released witness's arm and reeled back against one of the pillars. He then produced from his pocket a little plated clasp knife about 4 inches long with a corkscrew attached. Defendant is alleged to have opened the blade and made a lunge at the witnesses, stating as he did so: "I am going to do you in and I don't care a b... if I hang."

Brief Struggle.

"I seized him by his arm and held it down his side and there was a brief struggle. I said: 'Don't be a fool, la Sala. What is the matter with you? You have nothing against me.' Defendant then said: 'Let go, I'm going to do you in.' He added that he wanted to do that because he alleged that I owed money to his employers. I said: 'We don't owe you any money at all. Any debts we may have had are covered by securities; besides if you do me in you will get nothing at all.' At this, witness said, accused became calmer and put away the knife when asked to do so. "I saw that he was in an insane mood," added the witness.

The Magistrate: What do you mean by that?

Witness: His action and his speech suggested that he was either drunk or insane.

You mean you thought he was either drunk or insane?—He did not seem to be drunk!

You are giving me an opinion. You are not an expert on drunkenness or insanity?—No, but I should say he appeared either drunk or insane; I am more inclined to think the latter... temporarily.

Witness went on to say that he reasoned with the defendant who then became normal and expressed a wish to rejoin the Foreign Legion and later broke down and cried. Witness spoke gently to him, walked down the pavement with him and tried to persuade him to go home. He said he wanted to get drunk and "in order to get rid of him rather than help him in his decision," said witness, "I took him into the Hotel Cecil where he ordered two drinks for which I paid.

"I Must Have Blood!"

"His mood of violence had not entirely passed," said witness, and upon leaving the hotel he said to me, "I will give you one more chance. If you don't pay the money you owe my employers by mid-day to-morrow, I will kill both Major Cassel and you. I reminded the accused that we had a deed giving securities for monies owing to his employers and he replied, "That is all legal stuff, I don't give a b... for it." Just before leaving me the accused beat his fists together and said, "I must have blood, I am going to get somebody to-night." He then said, "There is my lawyer" and left me.

Next morning I told Major Cassel what had taken place the previous night and acting on his advice I went back to the office as usual. Shortly after 10 o'clock accused appeared and stood on the verandah. His arm was in a sling and he said: See this, I got it when I beat up those Filipinos last night at a cafe. He was referring to some people connected with the Cathay News.

Witness went on to say that the defendant produced a tooth which he said came from the mouth of the manager. He also is alleged to have said, "You had better keep out of my way, I haven't finished with you yet."

"To my relief," witness went on, "Major Cassel telephoned to me from the Central Police Station and asked me to go up there which I did and preferred the present charge against the accused."

In cross-examination witness agreed with Mr. D'Almada that he had known accused a year ago when he went to him for his experiences in the Foreign Legion from which he published two articles in Chopsticks entitled "My five years in Hell." Witness said that he was certain he made no promise of any payment to the defendant at that time.

Mr. D'Almada: Is it not usual to offer some kind of payment?—Not with a literary magazine.

Witness, in answer to a question by Mr. D'Almada as to whether they became very friendly, replied in the affirmative and added: "Only as between editor and contributor."

A Change of Face.

Witness also agreed that the arrangements between The Critic and the Shamen Printing Press were made through the defendant. He had found the defendant quite friendly until one occasion in July when Mr. Lammett threatened to stop publishing The Critic unless certain sums which were due on that was paid. The defendant was rather rude in his attitude on that occasion and was less friendly. It was a change of face, added witness.

Asked about defendant's demeanour in the St. Francis, witness said that he was not drunk but a trifle unsteady.

As a matter of fact the lady you mentioned was Madame Tintin?—Yes.

Regarding the defendant's meeting with Mr. O'Shea in Ice House Street, when the alleged threat is said to have taken place, Mr. D'Almada put it to the witness that what took place was that the defendant was in a ricksha and as he passed Mr. O'Shea who was on foot he said "Hello, O'Shea, I want a word with you."

Witness: I did not see him in a ricksha.

I put it to you he did not produce a knife?—I have said on oath he did.

You have read in the papers that Major Cassel said he had an automatic in his pocket that afternoon, can you say why he should produce a knife to you when he wanted to threaten you?

Witness replied that he saw a knife. Mr. D'Almada then asked whether it was not true that defendant had told witness not to look at him in a sarcastic sort of way and that he threatened to give him a hiding if he kept it up. "You turned round," said Mr. D'Almada, "and told him, 'Don't get excited like a hot-blooded Spaniard.'"

Witness denied that.

Mr. D'Almada: He asked you to have a drink?—Yes.

Could Not Shake Him Off.

Witness denied the suggestion that the two of them were very friendly when they left the hotel. "I could not shake him off," he added. Witness was asked whether, if he thought la Sala was mad, it was not his duty as a good citizen to notify the police that very night. He replied that his first thought was to get home.

Referring to a telephone conversation between Mr. Lammett of the Shamen Printing Press and witness, Mr. D'Almada asked if witness did not say that la Sala was arrested for threatening Major Cassel and that he (witness) regretted the whole affair.—Witness denied this.

Mr. D'Almada: Did you not say "I am very sorry for the whole affair which has nothing to do with me"?—I did not say that.

Did you not say you liked him?—Possibly. I do like him.

I put it to you then that whatever language he might have used to you was fully condoned by you?—Forgiven because of the circumstances under which it was committed.

Witness was then asked by Mr. Wynne Jones: Were you in fact afraid of your life?—Yes, owing to this man's threat I was afraid of my life.

Didn't you part on very good terms?—Yes when he became normal, but he had threatened to do me in on the following day and I presumed he meant it.

In answer to a further question later on, witness said: My sole object in bringing this charge is to protect myself from future attacks by the accused.

After Major Cassel and Detective Sergeant Pitches had given evidence, the case was adjourned until to-morrow morning at 11.30 when it is expected that Mr. Lammett from Canton will be in Court to give evidence.

CLAIM FOR SALARY

EMPLOYEE LOSES ACTION

Judgment for the Hanovim Quartz Lamp Co., 10, Queen's Road Central, who appeared as the defendant firm, was given by Mr. Justice J. R. Wood in the Supreme Court yesterday, in a claim for $431 for salary, commission and travelling expenses brought by Mr. H. C. Yuen, an employee, and a former student of Queen's College.

Mr. W. C. Hung, for the plaintiff, explained that there was also a claim for the cost of a passage and expenses for plaintiff's return to Shanghai. Plaintiff was formerly employed by the defendant firm in Shanghai and in April last year he was transferred to the Hong Kong office. He did not get on well with the manager here and on June 20 notice was given to plaintiff that he would be retransferred to Shanghai. He was assaulted by the manager and received medical treatment. Since July 13 plaintiff had received nothing on account for his salary or commission.

During the course of the plaintiff's evidence it was shown that there was a sum of $110 due to him from the defendant firm of respect of salary and there was a sum of $181.65 due from plaintiff to defendant which was the subject of his dismissal.

The Puisse Judge suggested that the matter should be adjourned sine die so that a statement of the commission account could be submitted.

Mr. Rendall: I will give an undertaking here and now to pay to plaintiff anything that is due to him from the defendants. I think I am entitled to judgment on this writ. I am here to answer a claim and I have, I submit, answered it successfully and am therefore entitled to judgment.

His Lordship gave judgment for defendants with costs provided there was an undertaking to prepare the account for commission earned and that it be adjusted in consultation with Mr. Hung.

PETITION FOR CHENG

TO BE SUBMITTED TO GOVERNMENT.

It is reported that over fifty of the most prominent Chinese residents of the Colony have signed a petition which will be presented to the Government some time next week in an attempt to secure a commutation of the sentence on Cheong Kwok Yau, the young man condemned to death for procuring the death of George Fung.

The plea for clemency advances the tender age of the condemned man and the fact that he and Lai Ming Fai were actually husband and wife in the eyes of Chinese, because they had lived together as man and wife for months, as reasons.

The petitioners plead that Chinese customs demand the severe punishment of offences such as the seduction of a man's wife.

ALL OVER A JACKET

SERIOUS FRACAS IN CENTRAL MARKET.

A serious fracas at the Central Market, in which a fight was severely wound up, broke out yesterday when Fung Chee, the man alleged to have struck the blow, was charged before Mr. Wynne Jones at the Central Police Court.

The injured man, who had in the meantime had three stitches over one eye, explained that he was relating to a friend the tale of a butcher who was about wearing a white jacket, when Fung Chee, a market hawk who was passing by at the moment, overheard the remark and thought he was the butt of it.

In answer to the charge, Fung Chee stated: "He meant me to hear the remark and all I said was that if he did not like 'my wearing a white jacket,' he could throw himself into the gutter and drown himself there."

"You know you might have killed him with the chopper," his Worship pointed out.

Defendant denied having used any deadly weapon than a wooden clog.

His Worship sentenced defendant to fourteen days' hard labour without the option of a charge of assault, ordered him to pay 25 compensation to the complainant, or to undergo a further week's imprisonment in default, and, finally, to sign a bond of $50 to keep the peace.

THE GREAT EXPERIMENT

THE results of the Ottawa Conference will leave the world a little breathless. Much more was achieved than the sceptics ever dreamed to be possible. Canada in particular gives and receives lavishly, though Canada, with eyes on the Chicago Wheat Pool, was not too ready to accept a wheat preference from Great Britain, while her manufacturers considered that both Home and American products had much to be said for them. Probably Canada is more alive to political consequences of an economic rapprochement with her southern neighbour than is often suspected. She has a better chance of maintaining her identity, and control of her resources, under the present arrangement than by alternatives that might mean greater immediate benefits to a few industrial magnates.

The Ottawa Conference was a turning point. There was some straight speaking and hard bargaining, but the results are founded on realities. The question at issue was whether a protectionist Great Britain should make a half-turn towards the self-governing Dominions or towards foreign countries, some of them old and valued customers, though others were of more dubious desirability. Britain had abandoned Free Trade and the problem arose as to where she should look for reciprocity in lowering of tariffs and other forms of mutual advantage. The Empire was, of course, given first choice, but it was made clear that there must be a quid pro quo. The argument that to date the Dominions had given much more in the way of preference duties than they had got was produced, but did not affect the issue. In earlier days Britain was on a Free Trade basis and while grateful for friendly gestures in the way of preferences from the Dominion markets she had made it understood that such concessions would not alter the traditional policy of the British Government. The principle of low prices for the urban consumer governed Westminster, because the urban voter dominated the general elections, and all suggestions of Imperial or other tariffs had been uncompromisingly rejected. Tariff Reform was a kettle on the Conservative Party's tail. The world depression, unemployment in England and an adverse balance of trade that threatened our whole economic structure, forced the imposing of tariffs. At once the question arose as to the best uses of these tariffs in order to keep out what Great Britain did not want—notably dumped goods—and to make substantial deals with the producers of the food stuffs and other raw materials for which Great Britain trades her manufactures and her "invisible exports." Had Ottawa failed no doubt bargains with other countries would have been struck. It has, moreover, to be remembered that the Ottawa agreements are of a tentative nature, subject to adjustments, and while minor adjustments are inevitable to make the new machinery work, adjustments can also be used as a polite means of cancelling an experiment that does not seem to answer as well as had been hoped. Ottawa is an experiment. Empire Free Trade is far from being achieved, but the legislation arising from the Conference is a turn and a long step in that direction. It is possible that Free Trade within the Empire may achieve that balance between production and consumption, and the unhampered marketing of manufactured goods, that are the world problems of to-day. Such success would see the end of the Tariff system. If the British Empire becomes self-supporting, by an extension of this new tariff system, and enjoys within its own economic Great Wall a prosperity impossible where trade is dammed by tariff barriers, then other nations will either seek to enter the magic circle of the British economic union or will create, by systematic groupings, similar self-supporting units. Quite possibly the Ottawa experiment may not succeed. The United States made an attempt to create "self-sufficiency" in collaboration with South America and Cuba. She failed, but the crash was due less to inherent unsoundness in the theory than to speculative greed. (Continued as foot of next column.)

DIVER'S DEATH

INQUEST HELD AT THE MAGISTRACY

RECENT FATALITY RECALLED

The death of Mr. William Ramsey Stephens, a diver who lost his life while doing diving work in the Harbour on September 20, was the subject of a Coroner's inquiry yesterday over which Mr. Schofield presided.

Medical evidence showed that the cause of death was (1) asphyxia and suffocation and (2) drowning.

A naval diver, giving evidence showing how a diving suit should be fitted on and also how the pumps worked, said that if an experienced diver found himself with insufficient air he would go to the surface as early as he could. If for some reason he was unable to do so he would be asphyxiated. It would be impossible for him, if he were under five fathoms of water to remove his helmet and if by some chance it was removed it would mean certain death. If the diver were dressed correctly, according to regulations, it would be impossible to take off his helmet.

In the present case, it would seem that owing to insufficient air the diver wanted to go to the surface and tried to lighten himself by removing his helmet. The diver having been in the water two or three minutes, he was quite certain that the diving suit, if properly worn, would have held sufficient air for that length of time. The inquiry was adjourned.

INNOVATION AT EUROPEAN Y.M.C.A.

MEMBERS ENTERTAIN LADY GUESTS

The European Y.M.C.A., Kowloon, introduced an innovation last night, when a Ladies' Night was given. About 230 members, friends and lady guests sat down to dinner in the main dining room and in the several smaller dining rooms. After dinner the guests were entertained at a concert in the West Lounge, conducted under the auspices of the Social Committee of the Y.M.C.A. A long and varied programme was given in which a splendidly presented one act play entitled "Robert alias Robert" was particularly well received. Those who took part in this piece were Rhoda Fowler, Madge Hunt, Agnes Lieb, John Luke, and Ralph Dorrer. Other entertainments that created a more than usual amount of interest were two zylphonhe selections played by the youthful Japanese artist, Master Sadno Iwai.

Mr. S. P. Makletsoff (piano), and Mr. E. O. Schroter (violin) assisted materially toward the evening's successful entertainment and songs were rendered by Mrs. Oswald Wornack and Mr. C. E. Gahagan. Mr. E. W. Truce was responsible for the arrangements of the evening's programme.

The social committee propose holding similar functions regularly each month, and if the enthusiasm with which last night's inaugural function was received is any indication, a more than successful season should be the happy result of the Y.M.C.A. organizers' labours.

In Luck!

"The Governor's beginning to take an interest in me," said the office boy.

Hurried Exit!

"The hawker continued his abuse even when he saw me, but he hurried down the street when I put on my helmet and he realised I was a policeman."—Evidence at London Police Court.

Royal Balmoral.

The King and Queen are always welcome visitors to Scotland for their annual holiday at Balmoral Castle. They arrived this year in happier circumstances than last, when the whole country was keyed up to a high pitch of excitement over the circumstances that brought about the formation of the National Government. It will be recalled that the King had no sooner arrived at Balmoral on August 21 than he felt he should return to London to hear the views of the party leaders on the crisis. The King spent three and a half days in London before travelling north again to resume his interrupted holiday.

A Modern Gordon.

Death removed a great and lovable personality in Sir William Willocks. Not only was he a brilliant irrigation engineer, as his work in India, Egypt and Mesopotamia as pre-war Iraq was called—testifies. His selflessness and his religious zeal reminded one of "Chinese" Gordon, if they made him something of an infant terrible to his colleagues. He had his own views on many subjects, one of them being that the Assuan Dam which he projected and designed was unsafe, and another that the Israelis left Egypt by the El Arish route, and not by the Red Sea.

He made an elaborate study of this question, which he argued before learned societies with compelling charm. The last years of his life he devoted to evangelising work amongst the Egyptian peasantry, whom he knew so well.

A Unique Experience.

One day giving evidence before a committee, Sir William was asked his opinion concerning a certain project. He replied, "It is unthinkable." That did not satisfy his interlocutors, and they pressed for a more considered opinion on the supposition that the scheme would be carried out.

To that Willocks said, "I think too hard to think I think a thing I don't think."

On one occasion he encountered what for a Christian must be a unique experience. He was taken to a mosque where, in the midst of the Moslem worship, the blessing of Allah was invoked upon him in gratitude for a brilliant engineering work he had carried out.

Important Telephone Invention.

A new "zero speech" device for perfecting long-distance telephony, which is the invention of the British Post Office, is being established in the principle towns in the United Kingdom.

It is believed the device, which is considered here as the greatest advance in land telephony for many years, will conquer echoes, eliminate oscillation in circuits temporarily out of use, and produce speech at full strength.

The device, which has already proved successful on the London-Aberdeen circuit, is in use on 80 long-distance lines, and it is hoped by the end of the year the number will reach 150.

State Capitalism.

Chile took a bold step into state socialism with the signing by Provisional President Davila of the National Emergency Plan. The Government is to organize five companies which will exercise a monopoly in industry, mining, construction, transportation and foreign trading. Agriculture and insurance have been nationalized by previous enactments. The 300,000,000 pesos capital for the operations is being raised by bond issues. The plan has features which make Chileans hesitate to call it socialistic—they even go so far as to call it State Capitalism!

LINES ON THE BEARS

(WITH ACKNOWLEDGMENTS AND APOLOGIES TO MR. A. A. MILNE)

Whenever I walk down Ice House Street,
I'm ever so careful to watch my feet,
And to buy a few shares,
And the masses of bears,
Who prowl in the gutters all ready to eat
Investors who venture to walk up the street
Go back to their lairs
And I say to them "Bears
"Just look how I'm buying up all of your shares!"

And the little bears growl to each other "He's wrong
"As soon as he's tired and starts going long
And some of the bigger bears try to pround
That they're just going out for a drink with a friend;
They try to pretend that nobody cares
Whether or when or how you buy shares,
But only the sillies believe that lie
It's ever so 'portant how you buy,
And it's ever so jolly to call out "Bears
"Just look at me buying the price of shares!"

According to the Central News Agency, the City Government of Greater Shanghai is contemplating the flotation of a loan in order to meet its budget deficiency of $3,000,000 during the next fiscal year. The loan tax will be used as part of the securities for the new loan, it is reported.

Letters of Administration to the estate of Mrs. Mary Rapp, alias Mi Ho, valued at $1,400, have been granted by the Supreme Court to the deceased's son, Mr. Fritz Rapp, a sharebroker. Deceased died intestate at 35, Kai-Tack Bund, Kowloon City, on March 31 this year, at the age of 76 years. She was the widow of the late Mr. C. P. Rapp, who died in December, 1924.

Alleged frauds covering a period of seven years, and totalling nearly $18,000, the victims being the Hong Kong branch of the Sheng To Weaving Factory, has been brought to light. As a consequence, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Tsui Wai Cheung, sales manager at the local branch. Tsui is wanted for the alleged embezzlement of $18,227.88 from the office between November, 1925, and September this year.

Peter Dillon, aged 12, a Kowloon schoolboy, sustained slight injuries to his face when he alighted from a Kowloon Motor Bus Co. vehicle on Wednesday in Sai Kung Road, Kowloon City. The lad was taken to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment. A similar accident was reported from the Sham Shui Po district the same night, where Ho Mui (21), an employee of the Nam Chan Shop, Fuk Wah Street, jumped from a China Motor Bus Co. vehicle, receiving internal injuries. He was removed to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

The Greater Shanghai Citizens Federation, at a meeting last Thursday, resolved to send a telegram to Nanking, asking the Government to issue a stern warning to the military leaders of Shanghai and Szechuan against further civil war and suggesting that the majority of troops of these two provinces should be moved to Manchuria to fight the Japanese.

The Provincial High Court of Chihli has, according to the Chinese Press, issued an order to the procurators of the various district courts of that province, instructing them to pay particular attention to the activities of Chinese "traitors," who serve under Japanese military authorities during the period of national distress. Should any such traitors be arrested, the order says, the procurators must lose no time in instituting legal proceedings against them.

For Sale: one Navy complete (numbers of ships—one). Such is the offer of the Government of the Republic of Panama. The "navy" consists of a steam yacht, purchased in 1925 to quell a disturbance among the San Blas Indians, and it is now anchored in Gatun Lake, and cannot be operated because there is no appropriation for its maintenance in the latest Panama Budget. It originally cost the Government $20,000, but when it is put up for auction the reserve will be fixed at $1,500.

The Rev. L. T. Nash, M.A., has been engaged as resident assistant master and chaplain of the Diocesan Boys' School. He is due to arrive next March. He was educated at Melbourne Grammar School and Catherine's College, Cambridge, where he took a good degree in History and English, and was prominent as an orator. Mr. Nash has had previous experience of teaching in Australia, and has been engaged for the last three years in a responsible post in the diocese of Melbourne.

A motor-driver named Tsang Ngan, who had had his licence permanently suspended some time ago, appeared before Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on a charge of driving a lorry along Nathan Road without appropriate licence. It was revealed by the prosecution that defendant held a licence some years ago, but had an accident which led the police to charge him with manslaughter. The case was not sufficiently proved against him, but there was sufficient evidence for the authorities to suspend his licence permanently. A fine of $50, or one month, was imposed.

Looking Back 25 Years.

The booming of gun in the harbour early on Saturday morning was the announcement of the arrival at this port of the Hon. Mr. W. H. Taft, United States Secretary of War, and his party. It was some hours after the arrival of the s.s. Minnesota that Secretary Taft and his party boarded the Government launch Victoria and were conveyed to Pedder's Wharf, the environs of which were packed with spectators. The Star Spangled Banner was much in evidence and from many buildings along the waterfront and in other parts of the town it floated in the breeze with the Union Jack of England, to two banners waving a welcome to the American guests. There was a guard of honour on Pedder's Wharf drawn from the 3rd Middlesex Regiment, and as the Government launch approached the pier, the guard presented arms, the probable successor to the presidency of the United States of America stepping ashore as the band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." He was followed by Mrs. Taft and his son, by Captain Ogle, His Excellency's A.D.C., Mr. Amos P. Wilder, U.S. Consul-General, Mr. S. Fuller, U.S. Vice-Consul-General, and others. After inspecting the guard of honour while a battery of kodaks were turned upon him, Secretary Taft and his party moved towards the Government House chairs. The massive conveyance provided for his use caused Mr. Taft to smile, and he is said to have asked the A.D.C. whether it would carry him. Receiving a reply in the affirmative he entered his sedan, and with his party was borne to Government House. Here the guests were met and entertained by His Excellency and Lady Lugard.—Hong Kong Daily Press, October 14, 1907.

Looking Back 50 Years.

Talking of the ferry boats, I think the owners of private launches and gigs have some reason to complain of the manner in which Pedder's is a little wharf for embarking and landing passengers per excellence and it was never intended for a mere ferry boat landing place. The convenience of the general public ought to be consulted as well as that of the Kowloon passengers. Of course the fault rests with the Government, which ought to provide a large pier capable of accommodating all the traffic which naturally gravitates to it.—Hong Kong Daily Press, October 14, 1892.

Ottawa Secrets Divulged

EMPIRE'S POLICY EXPECTED TO STIMULATE COMMERCE

TERMS OF AGREEMENTS BETWEEN BRITAIN THE DOMINIONS AND INDIA

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.

Imperial tariff preferences, based upon a desire for the protection of British industry, and linking the scattered Dominions and Colonies more closely to the motherland, are announced in detail in London.

The Anglo-Canadian agreement provides for lower duty on 48 per cent. of the total imports from the United Kingdom, while goods valued at £28,000,000 per annum are admitted free from Canada.

British imports of foreign meat will be drastically and progressively restricted. South Africa imposes minimum specific duties on foreign goods, while British products are admitted free. India gives a ten per cent. preference on 183 items, to which may be added cotton and artificial silk piece goods. Australia gives a preference to British goods ranging 15 to 20 per cent. New Zealand will reduce all duties on British goods and Newfoundland has granted a preference of 10 per cent. on certain classes of required material.

Under the Ottawa agreements, Ceylon will be invited to adopt the principle of preference in respect of a number of Indian products, of which cotton piece goods is the most important, while the Government of British Malaya will be invited to give India a preference in return for which India will grant preferences to certain Colonial products.

FREE TRADERS AGAINST AGREEMENTS

LONDON, October 13.

On the basis of the latest trade returns, it is estimated that Britain will benefit by the preference on over £50,000,000 worth of foreign imports from the Dominions under the new Ottawa Conference schedules.

The view of all commentators, except Free Traders, is that the schedules reveal more substantial concessions and cover a wider range of exports than was generally anticipated.

The Free Trade Press bitterly assails the agreements on the ground that they will seriously impede eventual world agreements.

On the contrary, the Conservative newspapers emphasise that Ottawa has lowered not raised the tariffs.

An interesting point in the agreement is the scheme to restrict the importation of foreign meat to Britain in order to raise the wholesale prices. The Times argues that this is the only way to save the United Kingdom and Dominion growers from ruin, and that it will also benefit foreign growers in the Argentine and elsewhere.

COLONIES BENEFIT

Arrangements were made on behalf of the Colonies at Ottawa to provide for numerous increased preferences, but these are confined to motor vehicles in Straits Settlements and Hong Kong. It is expected that a reduction of the duty on canned pineapples will benefit Malaya, and numerous tropical products, including fruits from the West Indies and vegetable oils from West Africa, are receiving preferences from the Dominions.

The Cabinet will consider implementing the Ottawa decision during its meetings this week, for at the forthcoming session, opening on Tuesday next, the matter of Empire duties will probably be disposed of. The Government anticipates stiff opposition to its Imperial Preference policy, which entails the levying of tariffs against.

Legislation to be Pressed Forward. [BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Oct. 12. With publication to-night of the summary of the proceedings of the Imperial Conference at Ottawa, the terms of the schedules, which hitherto have been kept back, mainly at the request of the Dominions, owing to the risks of forestalling, and revealed.

It is on the basis of the agreements and the schedules thereto, contained in this report, that legislation has been drafted which will be taken up by the House of Commons immediately. Parliament re-assembles on Tuesday next.

The legislation will be pressed forward with all speed, not only to prevent forestalling, but because under the Import Duties Act provision for the free entry of imports from the Dominions and the Colonies ceases on November 15.

World Trade.

The report contains the terms of the agreements between the United Kingdom and the various Dominions and India, and, in the opinion of the Government, the agreements greatly increase the opportunity of inter-imperial trading and represent an important step towards the restoration of world trade.

This over-riding consideration was expressed in a resolution passed by the Conference, which declared that by the lowering or the removal of barriers among themselves, as provided for in the agreements, the flow of trade between the various countries of the Empire would be facilitated and that by the consequent increase of the purchasing power of their peoples, the trade of the world would also be stimulated and increased.

Same General Form.

The agreements with all the Dominions follow the same general form. Imports from Empire countries into the United Kingdom, fall into three classes, namely, those accorded entry free of duty subject to revision three years hence, those which are granted a preference through the imposition of specific duties on foreign goods, and those which receive a preference in virtue of the ten per cent. ad valorem duty on foreign goods imposed under the Import Duties Act.

In the first category are included eggs, poultry, butter, cheese and other milk products from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland and Southern Rhodesia.

Foreign goods in the second category, respecting which Parliament will be asked to impose specific duties, are set out in the schedules to the agreements and include:

wheat in grain 2½ per quarter; butter 15/- per cwt; cheese 15 per cent ad valorem.

Schedules to the various agreements set out the details of the other proposed duties.

Fruit Duties.

In the schedule to the Canadian agreement goods specified include apples, pears, canned apples, dried fruits, eggs, condensed milk.

Under the corresponding schedule of the Australian agreement are included in addition to the above, powdered milk, honey, raw oranges, grape fruit.

The New Zealand agreement makes no additions to this list, but the schedules attached to the South African agreement includes a number of specific duties to be imposed on foreign imports of various other fruits, raw and canned, and also 10 per cent. ad valorem duty throughout the year on maize.

The only items specified in the corresponding schedule of the Newfoundland agreement are a duty on foreign cod liver oil of 1/4d per gallon on or chilled or frozen salmon of 1½d per pound.

India Agreement.

Under the United Kingdom-India agreement which is subject (Continued on next column.)

GERMANY'S CONSTITUTION

MUST BE FREE FROM POLITICAL PARTIES

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

MUNICH, Oct. 13.

THE reform of the Constitution was dealt with by the Chancellor, Captain von Papen in a speech here.

He said that a powerful authority must be carried above parties. The Government must be independent of political parties and the Government, not Parliament, must control the affairs of state.

SIR E. DRUMMOND'S SUCCESSOR

M. HERRIOT IN LONDON

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

M. HERRIOT, the French Prime Minister, accompanied by two officials, arrived in London late to-night. He was met by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon. He will confer with them to-morrow.

to ratification in India, provision is made for the imposition of duties on foreign imports of wheat, rice, castor oil, magnesium, chloride, and linseed.

An undertaking is given by the United Kingdom Government not to reduce the existing general ad valorem duty of ten per cent. imposed under the Import Duty Act on a large class of foreign goods which are already enumerated in the special schedules to the agreements with the Dominions whose interests are affected.

Immediate Advantage.

In regard to the modification of the import duties in Dominions on articles imported from Britain, full particulars are given of the new rates to be imposed.

In regard to Canada, these modifications apply to some 215 items, of which, in 132 cases, the duties on United Kingdom goods are to be reduced and of which in 79 cases, such goods are for the first time to enjoy freedom from customs duty.

On the basis of last year's trade, over 40 per cent. of imports from the United Kingdom into Canada will enjoy immediately an advantage of lower customs duties than they previously in force. Goods to the value of over eight million dollars being admitted free of customs duty.

Minimum Preferences.

The agreement with Australia provides that, subject to Tariff Board recommendations, United Kingdom goods will enjoy certain minimum preferences granted according to the duties chargeable upon them.

The minimum margin of the preference will range from 15 per cent. ad valorem when the duty on United Kingdom goods is up to 10 per cent. ad valorem, to 50 per cent. preference where the duty is 20 per cent. but the maximum duty rate must not exceed 75 per cent.

Preferences exceeding those resulting from the application of the formula remain at the existing level, subject to certain minor reservations.

Certain prohibitions on British imports are withdrawn and the removal of surcharges and primage duties is promised as soon as practicable.

Meat Control.

An important feature of the Australian agreement has reference to arrangements for the regulation of imports into Britain of frozen and chilled meat.

It provides, inter alia, for Australia limiting the export of frozen mutton and lamb to Britain in 1933 to an amount equivalent to that so exported in the year ending June 30 last.

Meanwhile, the United Kingdom Government will arrange with the Australian Government for the regulation of the importation of foreign meat in accordance with an agreed programme and for the anti-tubercular regulation of supplies of bacon and hams coming on the United Kingdom market.

1933 Consultation.

The Government will consult in 1933 on the best means of securing an improved price situation and a more orderly marketing of the supplies.

Britain already enjoys a very large proportion of the New Zealand (Continued on next column.)

DISTURBANCES IN BELFAST

TROOPS SENT TO CITY TO KEEP ORDER

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BELFAST, Oct. 12.

PEACE is being maintained in Belfast, but only at the point of guns of military and police.

Three thousand police officers, armed with rifles and revolvers, and a fleet of armoured cars, are patrolling the city danger areas, guarding the Falls Road district and those other areas where the mob menace was greatest.

Seven lorry loads of troops of the Inniskilling Fusiliers, carrying machine-guns, have arrived in the city and are on duty, their chatty little weapons displayed at points of vantage as much for purposes of intimidation as anything else.

A disturbing feature of the trouble, which broke out on Tuesday during a demonstration of unemployed and discontented relief scheme workers who demanded more pay, was the uncovering of large supplies of arms and ammunition among civilians. Police raids in suspected quarters disclosed this preparation for revolt.

It is thought probable that the arms were obtained through some sort of Communist agency.

Already 70 arrests have been made. The rioting on Tuesday caused numerous casualties and thus far three persons have been reported killed, while others are seriously wounded. Police were forced to fire on mobs, when marksmen among the angry mass commenced sniping at the officers.

The city last night was quiet and most of the streets were deserted. Lord Craigavon, in a speech at a meeting of Belfast Unionists, said to-day that if the mischief-makers come to Belfast to create trouble or in an attempt to create a Republic, they would be disappointed. He was not a man to be intimidated.

The Belfast Trades Council has resolved to call upon Trades Unions to strike in sympathy with the relief workers but it is not likely the Trades Unions will concur, particularly as the local shipyards are hoping to secure remunerative orders shortly.

The suggestion of Lord Craigavon that the voters may have been inspired by Free State sympathisers or even by emissaries sent from Dublin, has given a new angle to the Belfast disturbances.

LIBERALS MEET IN LONDON

LLOYD GEORGE URGES NEED FOR DISARMAMENT

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.

A GREAT audience at Queen's Hall last night recorded its approval of the resignations of the Liberal ex-Cabinet Ministers, Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Archibald Sinclair and their colleagues.

Sir Herbert Samuel was the principal speaker. He claimed that the main task for which he had joined the Government was finished.

Lloyd George Holds Own Meeting. In the meanwhile, Mr. Lloyd George, who refused to attend the meeting at Queen's Hall, was addressing a large peace gathering at the Guildhall.

The veteran statesman issued a warning of the danger over-present of the world unwittingly plunging into another war.

He was convinced, he said, that no ruler in Europe desired war in 1914, but the machinery, once started, crashed forward and overwhelmed civilisation.

Defends Treaty II—

Mr. Lloyd George said he was quite prepared to defend the Treaty of Versailles if it was completely carried out, but he declared that the majority of the signatories never intended that.

Before the ink was dry, they were arranging to create new armies.

millions.

Hitherto Newfoundland has not adopted the principle of Imperial Preference but its agreement provides, as from July next, for preferences of 10 per cent. on a wide range of goods, subject to certain reservations.

India absorbs about ten per cent. of Britain's total exports but hitherto Britain has had no customs advantages. Preferences are now proposed on articles in which the total trade last year was £24.0 million of which Britain supplied £14.3 millions.

HONG KONG'S SHARE

We are indebted to the Colonial Secretary's Office for the following communiqué.

HONG KONG, Oct. 13.

The Order under the Public Revenue Protection Ordinance promulgated in the Gazette Extraordinary of this evening and the legislation which it represents, are the result of the common effort planned at Ottawa and now ripe for execution to promote British trade by a system of reciprocal preference embracing all the Dominions and Dependencies.

The contribution of Hong Kong to this great scheme of Imperial solidarity must necessarily be small, because it is of paramount importance both to the Colony and to British trade that the movement of goods into, within, and out of the port shall be subjected to as few restrictions as possible and this principle is observed even in the new taxation imposed on motor vehicles, which must per (Continued on next column.)

GHASTLY MURDER AT HARBIN

EUROPEAN LADY VICTIM OF BANDIT ATTACK

CHILDREN RESCUED: TWO BANDITS KILLED

TWO RUSSIANS SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, October 13.

A BRITISH woman, Mrs. C. T. Woodruff, wife of the Chief Accountant of the British-American Tobacco Company at Harbin, was killed by Chinese bandits on Wednesday morning as she was taking her two children to school by motor-car. The children were unscathed, but the Russian chauffeur was wounded.

The outrage occurred near Woodruff's home. One bandit was killed, another arrested but the third escaped.

The deceased, whom the bandits apparently intended to abduct for ransom, is reported to have resisted with the result that they shot her dead. She was a native of Bristol as is her husband, who has been stationed at Harbin for the past eighteen months.

A LATER VERSION OF INCIDENT

HARBIN, October 13.

Four bandits attacked and murdered a British woman, Mrs. Woodruff wife of the Chief Accountant of the British-American Tobacco Company and also attempted to kidnap her three children.

Two Russians pursued the bandits who fired at them seriously wounding both.

Chinese police chased and fired at the bandits killing two, but the others escaped.

The children were rescued.

WHOLE OF BRITAIN SHOCKED

LONDON, October 13.

The whole country is shocked by the news of the murder of Mrs. Woodruff.

The poignant circumstances of the outrage are related in the newspapers in heavy type banner headings.

The news was conveyed to her parents when her mother was visiting her father who, in a nursing home, near Bristol, is suffering from nervous breakdown. The whole family is prostrate with grief.

LATER. The first intimation of the murder of Mrs. Woodruff reached her parents when they were listening to a wireless news bulletin at a relations house in Trowbridge, which they were visiting.

Shortly after her son arrived by car from Bristol with news cable by the Imperial Tobacco Company.

GULF STREAM MOVING WEST

COLDER WINTER FOR ORKNEY AND SHETLAND

Glasgow, Sept. 12.—After four months' investigation into the movement and flow of the Gulf Stream in Faroe waters and halfway across to Iceland, the Swedish research vessel Glovetrommen, with Professor J. W. Sandstrom, head of the Swedish Meteorological Department, on board, returned to Lerwick at the week-end and left again for Sweden.

The professor finds that the stream is now moving more westerly, and he predicts a colder winter this year for Norway, Sweden, Shetland, and Orkney.

His investigations in previous years at Spitzbergen, Greenland, and Iceland established that the stream was running closer to Norway and Sweden, but this year he found it more to the westward.

200 Whales Slaughtered. The professor and his companions witnessed the slaughter of 200 whales at Rikavik by 700 Faroes in 100 boats, who drove them ashore by using harpoons and stones. A Faroe man got his leg amputated by a rope which twisted round his limb.

CRICKET NOTES

EXCELLENT PERFORMANCE BY VOLUNTEERS

Cricket this season is somewhat slow in getting under way, but that most enthusiastic team, the Volunteers have got down thoroughly to business and when the players come along to their league matches with their particular clubs, they should not be in anyway short of practice. There are one or two players I have not seen at nets yet, but I don't always manage to get a look at them. I am very sorry to find that Hayward's static nerve went back on him again last week and kept him out of the match on Saturday. The Club cricket though keen enough was definitely scrappy last season and a captain like Hayward is just what is wanted. Bowker will not be playing, at all events for the former portion of the season owing to his heel injury which put him out of the game late last season. His loss will be much felt, as he is usually plus twenty at least before he goes in to bat owing to the brilliance of his fielding. Owen Hughes, who has been making runs and taking a few wickets for the Incongruity at home will be back in December. Provided the Club can turn out a regular first eleven every week they should be a strong combination.

Craigengower's Prospects.

I learn that C. W. Lam, who captained the University a season or two ago, will play this year for Craigengower, and this will afford most valuable support to their attack, which last season practically consisted of Omar and Robert Lee. Lam can get runs too, and quite quickly, but I hardly should describe him as an orthodox bat. Craigengower badly need a left hander, as if my memory serves me, S. Abbas has lost more of the form he displayed three seasons ago. Should he stage a come-back, the bowling will be definitely strong. It is rather curious that this Club has always been short of left hand bowlers. I have known them for twenty seasons and I cannot call to mind any left-hand bowler at all, besides Abbas, unless possibly J. V. Braga was a left-hand. I cannot be sure on the point, but I am pretty sure he batted right. The late Mr. Rose was a left-handed bat, who used to open the innings, but I never saw him bowl. I should be interested to hear from anyone who can give better information than this. There is nothing wrong with the fielding save that at times the younger members of the side seem over-anxious and try to throw the ball in before they have got it in their hands. Our last Interport wicket-keeper, Patterson, will be a tower of strength behind the sticks. On the whole this Club should have a good season if H. P. Lim and one or two of the earlier bats can steady themselves and not try to score too fast at the beginning of their innings.

The Army Side.

I am not disposed to pay over much attention to the collapse of the Army team on Saturday last. Half of them were very short of practice and only about half the side would appear in a representative Army eleven. Several of them were new to the Colony. Under these circumstances, it is not perhaps surprising that one of the best bowling sides in the Colony on their own wicket, skittled them out for thirty-nine. After this, Mr. House just gave his bowlers a try out. Young is likely to keep for the Army side, I am told, while Trout is a useful bat. I was surprised to learn that Col. Nosworthy has not yet arrived in the Colony, but is expected shortly in the New Year. The great difficulty that will face the Army skipper will be to get a reasonably regular personnel for his team. Nothing upsets a side more than constant changes.

At Kowloon.

The K.C.C. had all their men out in a Club game but so far as I can see their captain cannot have learned anything he did not know already. Burnett, as I said a couple of weeks ago, will make a good many runs this season if he gives his mind to it, but he would be wise to concentrate on his bowling. So far, Goodwin has completely failed to find his form with the ball though he laid on lustily for sixty-three in the first innings of his own teams. So far Melner appears useful but not up to the level of Brace, whose place he was expected to fill. By the way the teams seemed to vary in personnel over the week-end. We might try that on with Shanghai, putting out our best bowlers and fieldmen when they bat, and then including two or three batsmen who are heavily minus before their knock starts if they have fielded in the innings!

The Volunteer Match.

The game on the Club ground was a most excellent one, and owing to the Races no doubt it did not get as much notice as it should have done. I have therefore, as requested by several people, compiled an account partly from what I saw but chiefly from an excellent record written by a very good cricketer who was playing in the match. Those who do not wish to read the account may now allow their attention to wander until they reach the last paragraph of these notes. Owing to the fact that Hayward could not play Mitchell transferred from the Volunteers to the Club side as captain, and, as Potter's hands had not yet recovered from the bruises incurred in the Kowloon game Kilbee and Davies both came in to the Volunteer side. Naturally Mitchell won the toss.

Wickets Fall Fast.

From the start, I gather that Beck bowled very well and that the Club batted very badly. Late arrivals had rather upset the Club side. Mitchell put the second ball of the match beautifully through the covers for four but in the same over was taken in the slips. Barrow was bowled. Duncan returned a sitter and while Smith and Dankley held on for a bit the former was soon taken in the gully and the latter l.b.w., and five wickets were down for thirty-one runs. Nor did trouble end here. Lowe was playing steadily but he managed to run Chibagan out off an impossible call. However he made amends by hanging on grimly and putting Beck to leg nicely, and square cutting Simpson who was on the short side. With Divett in runs came faster until the new-comer was well taken by the screen, by Griffiths off Richardson. Reid and Duckitt soon made hay of the Volunteer bowling which had cracked a bit, while the fielding rather fell to bits. Lowson bowled Reid who tried to make a big hit, but Harbord kept his bat straight and gave valuable help. The innings reached a total of a hundred and eighty runs, for which the Club had to thank Lowe and their last three batsmen.

A Good Start.

The Volunteers started excellently against some steady bowling and fielding, but Richardson and Ride took the score to sixty-four before Ride was bowled by a good run from Reid which kept low. The light went fast but Griffiths and Richardson kept alive until a second appeal against the light was allowed, leaving the Volunteers nicely placed with eighty-six up for one wicket. This position however they proceeded to throw away rather next morning. Smith abandoned his slower leg breaks and plugged them down from the Law Court end while Reid bowled from the other. Richardson got a bad long hop from the latter away for a crisp four to square leg but shortly after was beaten by a beauty from Smith which turned in and took his middle. Griffiths was shortly out in much the same way. I have been told that Dunkley kept very well in the morning but he did not, from personal observation, keep well for the first half hour of it. He kept standing right up with the result that a lot of hys went, and he took hardly anything cleanly. He was very lucky to catch Lowson, as he missed the catch which shot off his gloves into the air and gave ample time for him to get underneath it. It was not however that Kilbee started hitting that any good was done. The ninth wicket put on forty, of which Davies only claimed four, and the last wicket enabled the Volunteers to draw level with the Club.

Second Club Collapse.

As before the Club earlier batsmen could do nothing right and it (Continued at foot of next column.)

ARMY CRICKET

R.A.S.C. BEAT R.A.O.C.

In the opening match of the Small Units League the Royal Army Service Corps beat the Royal Army Ordnance Corps by 6 wickets at Sookunpoo yesterday. The R.A.O.C. batted first and put up only 84 runs, Clarke being top scorer with 31 runs. The R.A.S.C. found little difficulty in getting the balance, and continued to play on until the light failed; their score being 181 runs for 8 wickets. Pamplin, their captain, and Joyce did very well, collecting 35 and 37 runs respectively.

Teams.

MAMAK HOCKEY TOURNAMENT

R.E. v. H.M.S. VETERAN

An interesting game was witnessed yesterday afternoon on the Navy ground, King's Park, when the Royal Engineers beat H.M.S. Veteran by one goal to nil.

The teams were evenly matched and it was not until near the close of the first half that the play turned in the Veteran's favour, but despite the continuous attacks, Bailey held his own at the goal mouth. The second half proved to be a rather exciting tussle; but the "Vets" were beaten when their captain, Lt. Carver (playing back) came up to the forward line. The R.E.'s got the ball—only one back to beat—a quick run and the inside left, Harding beat Lyon in the goal.

Teams.

R. Engineers:—Bailey, Stedman, Whitefield, Casey, Mullins, Holmes, Leslie, Hayden (Capt.), Humphrey, Harding, Pezz.

H.M.S. Veteran:—Lynn, McCoy, Carver (Capt.), Marnot, Ross, Fossey, Morley, Taylor, Rimmer, Cooper, Moore.

Referees:—Wayman and Carter.

FRIENDLY MATCH

DEVONSHIRE v. CARADOC

H.M.S. Devonshire were victorious in their match against H.M.S. Caradoc on the Navy ground, King's Park yesterday. Score:—Devonshire 5, Caradoc, nil.

was left for Reid and Duckitt to pull the game round with a stand of forty-three runs. Reid was unlucky to be out as he was sent back by Duckitt, who had been hit by a previous delivery from Beck and did not feel like violent exercise at the moment. The total only reached a hundred and fifty-three with Duckitt again forty-three not out. Beck had five for thirty-four.

The Volunteers Go All Out.

There was a chance of getting the runs; and after Richardson had been bowled off his pads by Reid for a single, Griffiths and Ride hit furiously and took the score to a hundred and eleven before being separated. Then in the gathering gloom the rest of the runs were made. There were a great many catches missed but the light was responsible for some at least of them. The Volunteers won by four wickets.

To-morrow's Games.

To-morrow the I.R.C. are at home to the Craigengower team and an interesting match should result. I imagine a draw is a likely result. Both the Club and A.O.C.C. have club games, and I do not know what the K.C.C. and Army sides are doing. The Navy have no game but go out to Pokfulam on Sunday to play the University. R. ARBIT.

DEMAND FOR NEW REFORMATION.

'ROMANIZING' IN ENGLISH
CHURCH

A DEFENCE OF THE MODERN GENERATION

London, Sept. 12.—The launching of a new Reformation to bring about drastic changes in the administration and creeds of the Church of England to meet the needs of modern civilization was demanded at the closing session of the Conference of Modern Churchmen at Bristol on Saturday by Dr. H. D. A.
Major, Principal of Ripon Hall,
Oxford.

Dr. Major vigorously attacked the present régime of the Church of England, and asserted that if the authorities failed to put an end to the Romanizing in that body, the State would have to take the Church in hand once again, and, he hoped, re-establish it on such an enlightened, comprehensive, and spiritual basis as to unite in Christian fellowship all the active forces of good will in the nation to serve the nation higher life.
That, rather than a negative policy of disestablishment and disen-dowment was alone worthy of English statesmanship, and the need for the exercise of that statesmanship, arose.

The question they had to face was: Should the Church of England reform itself, or did it need the assistance of the State to enable a new Reformation to be successful? "All our clericalists will hold up their hands in horror at this suggestion," said Dr. Major,
"and shout 'Erastianism' at the top of their voices, and above the tumult and the shouting we shall hear the clarion of a weathercock of Durham uttering its shrill protest." (Laughter).

"They might remember," he said, that if the Reformation had dependent simply on the Bishops and clergy they would have had no Reformation at all, or one of a very much worse quality. There were many evidences that the Church of England administration was becoming feeble, that the reactionary elements in our church life were securing ascendancy, that the Bishops, however great their good will, so far from being able to secure Reform, would not even be able to check retrogression.

Multitudes Driven Out of the Church.

"The new Reformation has its task cut out," he said. "Traditionalism, clericalism, and ecclesiasticism have all been on the increase in the Church of England
during the last three generations.
They have driven multitudes out of the Church of England.

"We of the new Reformation have to persuade the clericalists and the traditionalists to put first things first, to value things that Christ valued, to put principles above precepts, to regard no particular ecclesiastical instruction, whether the Mass or the episco-pate, as essential. If the new Reformation fails, the Christian religion as the religion of the human race is doomed.

"Infallibility of the Past."
"The root of the evil that the Church is cursed with is an avowed or implicit belief in the infallibility of its past, and it has no real faith in the present progressive guidance and inspiration of the Holy Spirit which would enable it to meet with inspired insight the successive crises in its history."

It was not because of clerical sluggishness and moral failure that the Church was losing its grip on the world. It was because it was adhering to forms of traditional theology which in some cases it had not the will, in other cases the ability, in other cases the courage, to bring up to date.

Dr. Major previously said that he could find no conclusive evidence of moral decline. There was less cruelty and criminality, less drunkenness and prostitution in our modern civilization. There was a wider outlook and more real sense of human solidarity and increasing humanitarianism, and increasing resolution to reduce human misery and make life enjoyable for all. The cult of athleticism; a vast increase in the less harmful forms of gambling, a reduction of bathing dresses to Ed-enic proportions, although these things were to be deprecated they were far less socially and personally detrimental than the vices and disorders which were being expelled.

lieve that one's own principles were infallible.

A NEW KIND OF REVOLVERUSED IN "THE PASSIONATE
PLUMBER"A trade notice states:—
The latest Hollywood invention is a "light ray" pistol whose bullets hit wherever a beam of light emanating from the gun is directed.This unusual firearm is one of the "props" in "The Passionate Plumber," riotous Paris comedy in which Buster Keaton, Jimmy Moran, and Dorothy Bartley are enacting at the Queen's Theatre from Sunday.Keaton has the role of an eccentric plumber who spends most of his spare time perfecting this new gun invention. During the many complications in which he becomes involved during the course of this wadeap comedy, the pistol is of great help to him in winning duels with some of the greatest experts in Paris. Finally, after numerous difficulties, he manages to sell the invention to an official in the French army.The pistol episodes are among the numerous adventures which the trio of laughmakers undergo when the plumber signs a unique "love contract" which finds its counterpart in an amusing romance between Durante and Polly Moran.
Irene Purcell has the straight feminine lead and the cast also includes Gilbert Roland and Mona Marie.

"THE LOVE RACE"

EXCELLENT SHOW AT THE QUEEN'SMostyn and Powleys, two rival types of cars, are favorites for a race at Brooklands. The son of Powley is in town with the daughter of the Mostyns, but Powley's father has forbidden him to marry her, for he cannot forgive the family which threatened his chances on the track. But parental discipline counts for naught where cupid is concerned. Reggie (Stanley Lupino) is determined to go to Ida Mostyn's (Dorothy Boyd) 21st birthday party. He does go and a series of complications ensue for he has recently arrived from abroad by train and a mistake has picked up a suitcase bearing his initials without and a lady underwear within. The bag falls open in the Mostyn hall, and makes matters a little difficult to explain, particularly as just after this incident the real owner of the suitcase arrives to claim her property, and Bobley Mostyn (Jack Hobbs) to placate his sister Ida, to whom he knows Reggie hopes to be engaged, introduces the new arrival as Reggie's sister, recently arrived from a convent. A little later the arrival on the scene of an infuriated Mr. Powley necessitates her being passed off as Reggie's wife, to account for the fact that her underwear is still in what appears to be Reggie's suitcase.
But all turns out well in the end.
Don't miss this really good show."DON'T BET ON WOMEN"

AT THE ORIENTAL

A trade notice states:—
Laying a wager on a proposition that depends upon the mood of a woman is a dangerous investment,
any time, any place, anywhere.
This proved in the Fox Movietone production, "Don't Bet On Women," showing at the Oriental Theatre to-day.Based on a story by William Anthony McGuire and directed by William K. Howard, it features
Edmund Lowe and Jeanette Mac-Donald in a story of a wealthy man who tries to argue with his attorney that all women are bad.
The attorney, having a beautiful

"PAID TO LOVE"

SPANISH PICTURE AT
THE KING'SThat it was not only possible but easy to follow the story of "Paid to Love" despite the fact that the dialogue was in Spanish proves that this picture is well directed and very well acted. Perhaps however, one may be permitted to hope that Jose Mojica and Conchita Montenegro may soon be starred together in a picture with English dialogue. Jose Mojica has a magnificent voice and the singing is one of the most enjoyable features of the picture. The story is a not unusual one of a princeling and the dancing girl who is paid to love him, with the result that she falls in love in real earnest.
There are many excellent scenes and the acting throughout is of a high order. "Paid to Love" is certainly a picture to see.

The Joy Fun Toy Company.

Possibly because H.E. and Mrs.
Southern were present with a large party or perhaps because they have settled down more happily to their new stage, the Joy Fun Toy Company gave an even better performance than that of their opening night. Every trick and amazing feat went with the swing and verve that makes really good entertainment, and the most amazing feat of all the Bamboo Pole act was certainly beyond anything that I remember either hearing of or seeing. Maybe it is not so impossibly difficult as it looks (— but it looks at all the same!) and every member of the audience must have watched with almost horrorful astonishment the acrobats performed at the top of a bamboo pole supported on a man's shoulder.

"CONGORILLA"

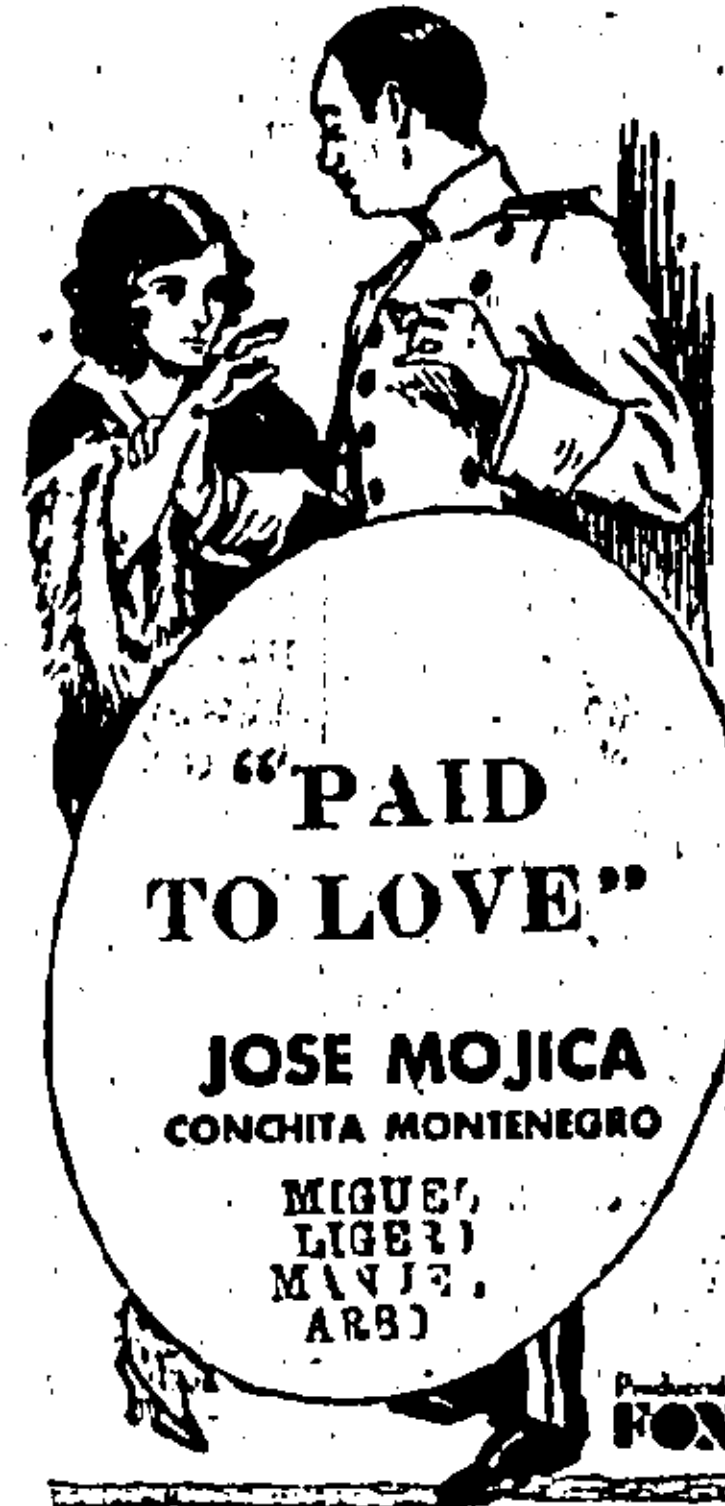

COMING TO THE KING'S

A trade notice states:—
Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson and the hundreds of natives who made up the caravan that penetrated the Empire of Death, revealed in all its natural splendor in the Fox picture, "Congorilla," which will be shown at the King's Theatre on Saturday, risked their lives time and again in their efforts to dazzle the eye and ear of civilized people with unknown sights and thrills. Primitive savages and primordial monsters were not the only menaces. A river of floating peril, with hideous island of flesh and slithering reptiles, threatened the lives of these two noted explorers and their native many times.
On one occasion, Mr. and Mrs.
Johnson found themselves surrounded by rhinos. One of them, in fact, made a dash for Mrs. Johnson and when within 20 feet of the camera was killed by her husband.
On another occasion the party was eye witness to an attack by a lion on a stray zebra. But this sight paled with the one that followed. A band of hyenas appeared on the scene and challenged the king of beasts.
On their way down the jungle Nile, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and their boats were attacked by slithering crocodiles and a herd of "river horses," the explorers have a narrow escape from gorillas that have suddenly discovered their presence.wife whom he adores, rallies to the defense of all womankind with the result a wager is made that Lowe cannot succeed in kissing the first woman that crosses an adjoining porch.That particular woman happens to be the wife of the attorney making the bet. Then the real trouble starts. The picture solves the problem.In addition to those mentioned, Roland Young, J. M. Kerrigan, Una Merkel, Helene Millard and Henry Kolker complete the cast.

"RADIO PATROL"

FINE ENTERTAINMENT AT CENTRALA trade notice states:—
"Radio Patrol," the current Universal film at the Central Theatre, gets off to a good start and builds steadily right up to the last minute with a lot of forceful, human drama, suspense and action packed into its seven reels.The story deals with the lives of the young men who go through the police school together and find out later in pounding their respective beats, that the unpleasant promises of a police sergeant are only too true. Most of the action centres around Robert Armstrong as Bill, Russell Hopson as Pat and Lila
Lee as the girl who was won away from Pat by the more romantic Bill.Armstrong gives his usual dependably snappy performances and Hopson in his first sympathetic screen rôle gives Armstrong a spirited chase for first acting honours. In her "comeback" films, Miss Lee looks the picture of health and fills her rôle well.
June Clyde assumes a brief but highly emotional part and Andy Devine, though killed off early in the production, scores some good laughs and makes a decided hit with audience."Radio Patrol" has much to be recommended, particularly in that it tells a true story of the police conditions and the advancement of police methods.

GRETA GARBO

WAS SHE SECRETLY MARRIED
TO MAURITZ STILLER?Stockholm, Oct. 4.—A new and sensational version regarding the motives of Greta Garbo's return to her native shores is circulating in the capital's literary quarters, where it is asserted that the film star was married secretly eight years ago to her discoverer, guide, friend and promoter, the famous Swedish director Mauritz Stiller, who died last year, and that she came to Stockholm purely for sentimental reasons to gain possession of Stiller's effects, manuscripts, etc., which are hers by law though the ownership is disputed by Stiller's relatives.Circles in close touch with the film star deny she is Stiller's widow, but admit she put forward a claim as Stiller's lawful heir.
It is pointed out that the inheritance has no intrinsic value, but, even so, is treasured by Garbo.WE ARE GLAD TO ANNOUNCE THAT WE WILL COM-

"LIFE'S COMEDY", EP. 2.

COMING! COMING!

THE PICTURE TERRIFIC
THE NEWEST UNIVERSAL SUPER FEATURE
"THE DOOMED BATTALION"

With TALA BIRELL, LUIS TRENKER, VICTOR VARCON!

Wynne Gibson Success.

The comedy element in the very human story of "Lady and Gent" is well directed, notably where the lady's dogmatic attitude on a particular matter is followed immediately by a close-up of a scene showing that she has exercised the privilege of her sex and quietly changed her mind. Wynne Gibson is splendid as Bancroft's loyal girl friend, and Bancroft is in his best form throughout.

New Film Triumph.

An important contract which will give British pictures a great impetus in the Far East has just been signed in London.Mr. E. G. Osborn, the managing director of the Associated British Picture Corporation of Shanghai, stated."We have signed a contract to take the complete output of British pictures from the Gaumont Picture Corporation for five years."Whereas the films shown up to now have been 100 per cent. American, the proportion will eventually revert to something like 80 per cent.
British and 20 per cent. American."Cavalcade" finished its run of 2215,000.403 performances at Drury Lane Theatre, London, last month having taken altogether approximately £215,000.Of this fortune Mr. Noel Coward, the author, has probably received between 20 and 25 per cent., excluding the book, serial, and film rights, each of which is worth a small fortune.It opened at £7,300 a week, which was maintained for several months.
It dropped slowly until July, when it stayed at £3,600 a week. Afterwards takings rose again to £4,500
a week.

The play employed 644 people.

Party for Film Stars.

Heather Thatcher gave a merry little party to Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jun., at the Cafe de Paris, in London. The guests included Lady Ashley, Sir Henry Berkin, the racing motorist, and Noel Coward.Joan Crawford looked very charming in a close fitting blue angel skin gown trimmed with fur.The same evening the Duke and Duchess of York paid a visit to the Cafe de Paris and danced a lot, although the floor was crowded.
